

Adventure Favorites

See more Adventure titles

Younger Elementary School Readers

Radio Rescue by Lynne Barasch

In the 1920s there were no cell phones or computers, but a boy in New York City could use the latest technology to help a family in Florida.

Tornado by Betsy Byars

A twister is coming and the family heads for the dark and dreary storm cellar to wait it out. Hour after hour, there is nothing to do but worry. Pete, the farmhand, fills the time with stories about a dog name Tornado.

The Schoolchildren's Blizzard by Marty Rhodes Figley

The winds from the raging blizzard blew the roof off of the schoolhouse. If they can't make their way to safety, the children and their teacher will surely freeze to death.

Stone Fox by John Reynolds Gardiner

Grandfather is sick. Everyone says to sell the farm. Can Little Willy win the dogsled race and earn the money they need to pay the bank?

Akimbo and the Lions by Alexander McCall Smith

Lion attacks, elephant poachers, crocodiles, and deadly green mamba snakes. When your father is a ranger in a game preserve in Africa, adventure is around every corner.

Roxie and the Hooligans by Phyllis Reynolds Naylor

Roxie carefully listens to Uncle Dangerfoot's adventures. These lessons help her survive when she finds herself stranded on an island with bullies and bank robbers.

Rescue on the Outer Banks by Candice F. Ransom

In the midst of a hurricane, can ten-year-old Sam and his horse, Ginger, rescue the shipwrecked people before they drown?

Anna, Grandpa, and the Big Storm by Carla Stevens

"Maybe you should stay home from school today," said Mama. Maybe Anna should have listened to her mother on that snowy March day when a giant snowstorm shut down New York City.

Kate Shelley and the Midnight Express by Margaret K. Wetterer

When Kate heard the crash, she knew it meant one thing--the railroad bridge had collapsed from the raging of the storm. If she failed to warn the coming train, it would wreck with two hundred people aboard.

The Earth Dragon Awakes by Laurence Yep

Henry and his friend Chin wish that their lives were filled with adventure like in the books they read. When a major earthquake strikes the city, they begin to understand that bravery is not only in books.

Older Elementary School Readers

Flood Mississippi, 1927 by Kathleen Duey

Garrett and Molly have hidden their money in a tin can in the bayou. Using a homemade raft, they try to retrieve their savings, but are swept away by the raging waters of the Mississippi.

A Girl Named Disaster by Nancy Farmer

When eleven-year-old Nhamo is told that she must marry, she runs away to her family in Zimbabwe.

Julie of the Wolves by Jean Craighead George

Lost on the barren tundra of Alaska, Miyax is adopted by a new family, a pack of Arctic wolves.

Promises to the Dead by Mary Downing Hahn

As a runaway slave is dying in the woods, she begs Jesse to take her son to relatives in Baltimore. Can he do it? The Civil War is raging and slave catchers are searching everywhere.

Abduction! By Peg Kehret

Bonnie's little brother is missing and the family dog has disappeared. Are the two disappearances connected? Will Bonnie find her brother Matt?

Island of the Blue Dolphins by Scott O'Dell

Karana not only survives her eighteen years alone on an island, but makes a happy life there.

Hatchet by Gary Paulsen

Brian is on his way to spend time with his dad. His plane crashes, leaving him alone in the Canadian wilderness. Does he have what it takes to survive?

The Legend of Bass Reeves by Gary Paulsen.

Based on the real life of Bass Reeves who escaped slavery and lived with the Creek Indians for many years before he was a free man. He became one of the greatest law men of the old west.

Night of the Twisters by Ivy Ruckman

The day started like any other summer day in Nebraska. Little did Danny know that surviving the tornado was only the beginning of the adventure.

Homecoming by Cynthia Voigt

They waited and waited for their mother to come back, but she had abandoned them. So begins the long, hard journey of the four Tillerman kids to find a new home.

All books are cataloged as J Fiction.
Please ask a librarian for help in locating these or other books.